Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 31 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy rain this morning, brighter and showery later.

Today:
A band of occasionally heavy and squally rain moving eastwards across the region during Sunday morning. Winds freshening with gales likely on coasts. Brighter with blustery showers, heavy at times, for the afternoon especially in the west. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Blustery showers, heavy at times, continuing overnight. Showers generally more frequent in the west and somewhat drier in the east. Some clear spells developing, giving a chilly night. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Monday:
Monday continuing showery, heavy at times. Strong winds, with gales possible on hills and coasts. Starting to feel slightly cooler than of late. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Mostly dry with sunny spells Tuesday and lighter winds, chance of a shower later. Wednesday and Thursday showers, especially on coasts, with some brighter spells. Windy again and feeling colder.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.